Numerous organizations offer a wide array of sports, arts and cultural opportunities, as well as support services to various groups of individuals. Many community events are hosted throughout the year and the surrounding area is perfect for hunting, fishing, camping, boating, hiking, snowmobiling and cross country skiing.

Further, they are involved and connected to our community by investing in projects, including the recently expanded Parkland College Trades and Technology Centre. There are multiple employment opportunities in business as well as in the health, education and services sectors in our City.

Our commercial and industrial business sector is large compared to our population because of the surrounding trading area of over 200,000 people. You will find virtually every service and product that you need right here.

Our administration works hard to provide a variety of services to ensure our city is safe, clean and prosperous for all to enjoy. We work closely with the Mayor, Council and committees, multiple organizations and many stakeholders in our region, to ensure the sustainability of our economy and our community. We are accountable to those that we serve and strive to make our community the best it can be. I welcome each and every one of you to our hometown, the City of Yorkton.
HISTORY

Yorkton’s origin dates from 1882 when a group of Toronto businessmen, the York Farmers’ Colonization Company and Queen Victoria, represented by the Department of the Interior, entered into an agreement to settle eight townships in the eastern part of the Provisional District of Assiniboia, North West Territories. Settlers from Ontario, Manitoba and the British Isles were the first to make entry on homesteads and company land, in a region recognized for its very fertile soil. They established York City, renamed Yorkton with the opening of the post office on January 1, 1884. Yorkton achieved city status in 1928. Now, it is the province’s fifth largest city. From its beginning, Yorkton has established itself as a leading regional center for retail and wholesale trade, health and government services, and a center for a variety of commercial services.

GODFREY DEAN CULTURAL CENTRE

The Godfrey Dean Cultural Centre houses a wide variety of cultural and artistic venues:

YORKTON ARTS COUNCIL

The Yorkton Arts Council (originally known as the Yorkton Art Centre) launched into existence following the Annual Festival of the Arts, in Yorkton in October 1965. The Festival’s purpose was to raise community interest in the arts. A consultant with the Saskatchewan Arts Board took the opportunity to advise and encourage interested citizens to establish a place for the development of programs of music, drama, art, lectures, and craft demonstrations. Her appeal met with a positive response.

A steering committee formed following a public meeting, and eventually the first Board of Directors. Increased interest in the Art Centre made it necessary for the organization to change its location twice during the next 15 years, each time to slightly improved facilities, until November 1981 when they moved into the Godfrey Dean Cultural Centre.

From their early beginnings when they offered programs in the visual and performing arts, the programs have continued to grow and expand. Today the Yorkton Arts Council presents 10 concerts in the “Stars for Saskatchewan” series along with other individual concerts.

‘Sunflower Fine Art Craft Market’, which began in 1979, is the largest un-juried show in the province held annually in September. Countless artists and artisans, from here, near and beyond, have shared their wares with an appreciative audience of fans. Dedicated volunteers donate their time, energy, and innovative ideas to organize and present this fine art craft market annually, under the direction of the Yorkton Arts Council, in support of their community programming.
Since its inception over three decades ago, Sunflower’s well-deserved reputation grows as a quality show with seasoned exhibitors. They have seen it change from an outdoor daylong-juried event to a two-day smorgasbord at the Gallagher Centre with 150 artistic vendors. Exhibitors are added each year to the list of favourites, with new offerings always available to delight and tantalize. These marketers offer pottery, photography, fibre arts, paintings, jewellery, specialty foods, metal work, home and garden decor, kids stuff, recycled products and much more.

Over the years, Yorkton Arts Council has acted as a catalyst for the formation of groups such as the Parkland Writer’s Alliance and the Kids Klan Theatre (a children’s theatre organization). The Council works co-operatively with other community cultural organizations such as dance schools, Yorkton Film Festival, the Yorkton and District Multicultural Society, the Saskatchewan Society For Education Through Art, the Parkland Writer’s Alliance and Yorkton school divisions. They also enjoy a positive relationship with our neighbouring arts councils. Through collaborative fundraising, the Council and the Yorkton Music Festival Association are co-owners of two Yamaha grand pianos, one housed in the Anne Portnuff Theatre and the other at St. Andrew’s United Church.

A 6-person Board of Directors elected at the Annual General Meeting for two-year terms manages the Council, a non-profit organization. The Board meets every two to three months with the exception of the summer months. Committees, made up of directors and members, meet as required.

Throughout their growth, the need for staff escalated and they moved from volunteer help to a paid part-time Performing Arts Coordinator and an Administrative Coordinator.

SUNFLOWER FINE ART CRAFT MARKET IS THE LARGEST UN-JURIED SHOW IN THE PROVINCE.
GODFREY DEAN ART GALLERY INC.

Since the 1950s, the Yorkton Arts Council hosted and organized visual art exhibits in various locations in Yorkton. With the construction of the Godfrey Dean Cultural Centre came two galleries and office space on the second floor of the building, adjacent to the historic Land Titles Building on Smith Street. Through most of the 1990s, the galleries were managed by the Yorkton Arts Council, its volunteer board visual arts committee, and part-time staff.

In November of 2002 the Godfrey Dean Art Gallery was incorporated as a not-for-profit organization, and formally assumed responsibility for visual art education and programming in the gallery in February 2003.

The public programming at the Godfrey Dean Art Gallery responds to the cultural diversity of the Yorkton community. As the only professionally operated public art gallery within a 150 km radius of Yorkton, the Gallery curates, exhibits and promotes the work of local, provincial, and national contemporary artists.

Through workshops and diverse public programming, the Godfrey Dean Art Gallery strives to fulfill its mandate to educate, entice, and challenge our region within the realm of visual literacy.

Always embracing change, the “Dean” opens exhibits in both galleries about every six weeks. It also opens its doors to the cultural and artistic programming of local organizations and schools, and welcomes performers, poets, and musicians to contribute to the artistic climate of the gallery. The Godfrey Dean Art Gallery itself is an exhibit of imaginative thinking in a contemporary rural society.

On an October evening in 1950, a hush fell over the audience. The projector whirred into action, the screen lit up and the sights and sounds of life filled the stillness of city hall. It was the first Yorkton International Documentary Film Festival! The festival was the brainchild of James Lysyshyn, often referred to as “father of the Yorkton International Documentary Film Festival”. Lysyshyn was a young National Film Board field officer, stationed in Saskatchewan with a mandate to set up film councils. Hearing about an arts festival held in Europe, as well as music and science festivals in other parts of Canada, he came up with the idea for a film festival. At the time Yorkton had a very active film council so, Lysyshyn decided to pitch his idea to them. The first meeting with the council met with little success. The council members felt there were not enough new films being produced in Canada but Lysyshyn didn’t take no for an answer. He requested a meeting with the council the next month and presented his new idea for an international documentary film festival. The council liked the idea and the Yorkton International Documentary Film Festival was born. They decided to hold the festival in two years due to the time involved in soliciting entries from foreign countries. Entries for the first festival, in 1950, came from India, Brazil, Denmark, Australia, Switzerland, Sweden, the United States of America, and Britain. Canada had many entries, including five from Saskatchewan.

Over the years, the festival grew. Wheat fields surrounded Yorkton and wheat was a major product of the prairies. Therefore, the grand prize was “The Golden Sheaf”. The first Golden Sheaf was awarded in 1958 to a Czechoslovakian film called “Inspiration.”

Throughout its many years of existence, the Yorkton festival has continued to be successful, due in large parts to the many faithful volunteers, who have stood by through thick and thin. This indomitable spirit makes this festival and others of its kind something we can all be proud of as Canadians. Today, the festival is housed in a modern building in the heart of Yorkton. A full-time Executive Director and Artistic Programmer staff the office, with part-time clerical staff being hired during the months leading up to the festival each spring. Although Yorkton Film Festival celebrations take place the last weekend in May, the Yorkton Film Festival offers films and activities for all ages throughout the year.

Yorkton has a rich and varied sporting history. In the Yorkton Sports Hall of Fame and Museum, located beside the Godfrey Dean Cultural Centre, you will find “Hometown Heroes”. Men and women who, individually and in teams, succeeded as athletes and builders, and brought honour to themselves, their sport, and their community, are showcased in the displays. Some of these “Hometown Heroes” include:

- Canadian pro-stock motorcycle racing champion Rick Dawson;
- Clare Drake, who coached women's national teams in softball and basketball, and the Canadian Olympic hockey team;
- CFL and NHL all-star Gerry James;
- Don Pfeifer, the only international and Olympic volleyball official ever from Saskatchewan;
- Women's national curling champion Pat Piper;
- Mountain climber David Rodney, who has scaled Mount Everest several times;
- National Special Olympic gold medalist Eddie Cote; Master Bowler Bill Winnitowy and many more, over 50 athletes and teams representing several dozen sports.

The Hall was a longtime dream of Vern Pachal, himself a member. It became reality in 1994, and every year it inducts athletes, builders, and promoters of sport.

The Saskatchewan Western Development Museum (WDM) Story of People is one of four provincial branches which exhibits the social and economic history of Saskatchewan. The Yorkton WDM chronicles the stories and recreates the times and styles of some of the immigrants who settled in Western Canada and Saskatchewan. From a Ukrainian kitchen to an American bedroom, from the steam traction engine to the Morris Rod-Weeder, exciting exhibits will help you gain insight into the undaunted spirit of the people who came to this land.

A beautifully treed city, Yorkton has more than 30 parks and recreation areas offering many opportunities to enjoy the outdoors year round. There are neighborhood parks with playgrounds, barbeque pits, tennis courts, benches, winter skating and pathways for leisurely strolls. Other, more active areas have fastball and baseball diamonds, football, lacrosse, soccer, playground equipment and two spray pool parks.

SKATEBOARD PARK

The Yorkton Skate Plaza is located at the corner of Broadway and Brodie Avenue. This Plaza was developed as a direct result of a mobilized user community, supportive administration, and a lot of hard work! This plaza has many stock skatepark features that are loved by all but some unique ones as well, making it a skating destination for the parkland area.
Yorkton’s disc golf course opened in the spring of 2011. Designed by Joe Hunt and Wayne Harvey, disc golf is similar to regular golf. Instead of using golf clubs and balls aiming for a hole, players use discs and aim for a target basket. This target basket has a pole extending up from the ground with chains and a basket where the disc lands. The object of the game is to complete each hole in the fewest number of throws. Each hole begins at a tee area and finishes at the basket.

The Gloria Hayden Community Centre is a favorite recreation spot for Yorkton residents. The centre boasts a hardwood floor gymnasium, which accommodates three badminton courts or a tennis, basketball or volleyball court. The centre’s two racquet courts have moveable walls making them available for both squash and racquetball. A 140m rubberized walking track comprised of two lanes is available for running or walking.

The community centre is strategically connected to both M.C. Knoll and St. Michael’s Schools.
GALLAGHER CENTRE

The Gallagher Centre is eastern Saskatchewan’s premiere recreation and entertainment complex. The Gallagher Centre is owned and operated by the City of Yorkton, and houses the Farrell Agencies Arena; the Nexera Flexihall, a sports fieldhouse and the home of major trade shows and banquets for up to 1,200; the curling rink; convention centre; leisure water park including wave pool, waterslide, lane pool and more; and several related businesses.

The Gallagher Centre, home to the Yorkton Exhibition Association, provides exhibitors access to over 70,000 square feet of covered show space, horse barns, cattle barns, race track, and grandstand all situated on 65 acres of land located on the west side of Yorkton. The surrounding grounds include agricultural exhibition facilities, grandstand, and racetrack.
The Yorkton Exhibition Association is an organization of volunteers. These volunteers work year round to attract, organize, and provide the public with several community events. Founded in 1883, the Yorkton Exhibition Association continues to fulfill its commitment to promote agriculture and business interests, to educate and inform, to build a sense of community, and to offer a wide range of unique entertainment packages to Yorkton and the Parkland area. The Yorkton Exhibition Association has five main shows annually: the East Central Bull Power Sale and 4-H Spring Steer & Heifer Show held in March; Yorkton Spring Expo held in April; Summer Fair held in July; and Grain Millers Harvest Showdown held in November. The Exhibition Association acts as the organizer and co-participant with local organizations for the two parades held annually in Yorkton - during Summer Fair and welcoming the Christmas season.
In Yorkton, the name Terriers means hockey, and both the team and the sport are an integral part of the community fabric. In the winter of 1972, the senior Prairie Hockey League (PHL) was on its last legs, and that became the catalyst for the birth of the Yorkton Terrier Junior A team. Since the PHL was on the verge of folding, the executive of the Yorkton Terrier senior organization changed its name to the Yorkton Terrier Hockey Club paving the way for adding the word “Junior”. On June 25, 1972, the Yorkton Terriers officially became part of the SAJHL, as the league expanded for the third consecutive year. The Terriers became part of the Northern Division with the Melville Millionaires, Humboldt Broncos, Saskatoon Olympics, and Prince Albert Raiders. Over the decades, the Yorkton Terriers have been under both private and community ownership. It has a home within the Gallagher Centre, at the Farrell Agencies Arena. The Terrier past has been exciting and colorful, and thanks to the continuing hard work of dedicated volunteers and the support of the community, the future continues to look promising.

In May 2014, the Yorkton Terriers won the 44th Annual National Junior A Championship - the RBC Cup. The Terriers won against the Carleton Place Canadians with a 4-3 overtime victory.

This national championship is the first for the Terriers, who were playing in their fifth all-time appearance at the tournament. The Terriers are the 10th team from the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League to be named the national champions, and the Terriers became just the fourth team to do so since the start of the five-team format in the year 1990.
RAVINE ECOLOGICAL PRESERVE

The Ravine Ecological Preserve consists of a 2.8 km (1.7 mile) hiking trail that works its way through grassland, aquatic and aspen parkland habitat. With the help of many dedicated community volunteers, the park’s mandate is to preserve the natural integrity of the site for passive recreational pursuits and ecological education.

Along the trail, a boardwalk crosses over the water. Through the aspen forest, song birds, mammals, amphibians and reptiles make their home. Plants such as saskatoon, chokecherry, hazelnut, twining honeysuckle and wood rose all present themselves to the hiker along the trail. At the arboretum, found in the southwest corner, you will find species of ornamental trees and shrubs hardy to the Yorkton area.
